BANDITS SEIZE AMERICAN TOURISTS

Chinese Attack Shanghai Train Seizing Women

Relations Between Pekin And Washington Strained as Wholesale Raid Is Made—One American Reported Killed—Rockefeller's Sister-in-Law Among Captives.

WASHINGTON. May 7.—A situation apparently regarded as seriously menacing good relations between the United States and the Pekin government in China, was described today by American Minister Schurman in the first official report to reach the State Department regarding the capture of United States citizens near Shantung.

The American minister is understood to have made informal representation on his responsibility and it is expected he will be instructed to pursue the most vigorous course to secure the release of the prisoners unharmed.

The report was prepared by Mr. Schurman on the basis of information furnished him by an American who was on the spot when the bandits attacked the train. It was indicated that so far as known, none of those taken had been harmed and the minister was hopeful that they would be released. Mr. Schurman's report was dated midnight May 6th and described the situation as "very serious."

Should any American lose his life the State Department will make vigorous demands on the Pekin government for restitution. Not only will suitable apologies be required but indemnity must be paid and those responsible must be punished if good relations are to continue. In any case the United States will insist that more efective steps be taken to protect Americans in China on leg.

PEKIN, May 6.—Bandits killed one foreigner and carried off 150 passengers in a raid near the Shantung border today. Miss Aldrich, of New York, sister-in-law of John D Rockefeller, Jr., and daughter of former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich was among the passengers, but her fate is unknown.

The foreigner killed is believed to be a Russian. The minister of communication late today telegraphed General Tsao Kun and the civil military governor of Shantung, asking that troops be sent to surround the bandits.

The express train was north-bound from Soochow when attacked by the bandits, who disarmed soldiers estimated at 1,000 strong and tore up a stretch of the railroad track. Fifty first class and 100 second class passengers were carried off, it was reported here. Six foreigners escaped.

ARMY OF CAPTIVES

LONDON, May 6.—Three hundred passengers including some foreigners were carried off by bandits who early today raided an express tran at Lyncheno, Shantung, a Reuters dispatch from Pekin says. One foreigner was reported killed and 23 Chinese and six foreigners are said to have escaped.

LEFT LAST WINTER.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., left New York last winter on a tour of the world accompanied by a traveling companion, it was said today, at the home of her brother, Winthrop W. Aldrich, Wall street lawyer. No word had been received from her recently, it was said.

Miss Aldrich is a resident of Providence R. I. Most of her time in the United States was spent at the family country place in Warwick.

Her brother, who is a member of the law firm of Murray, Prentice and Aldrich, attorneys for the Rockefellers, said later she had been out of the country about a year and he was soon to leave China for Japan with several Standard Oil officials who have been touring the Orient. One of those traveling with Miss Adrich, he said, was a Miss McFadden. Miss Aldrich was accompanied by a maid.

FULLER INFORMATION AWAITED

SEAL HARBOR, Maine, May 6.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is spending a vacation here, said today that he ha dreceived no direct word of the reported seizure of his sister-in-law Miss Lucy Aldrich, in a raid by Chinese bandits near the Shantung border.

Miss Aldrich has been tra eling abroad for about a year" he said when informed of the incident by the Associated Press. "Last fall she went to India from Europe and later to China. She has been in Pekin recently."

Mr. Rockefeller said he had not heard from Miss Aldrich for some time. He would have to secure fuller information before taking any action in her behalf, he said.

STATE DEPARTMENT TO ACT.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—On the report made by the American minister, the department will base its action with regard to th eaffair, probably sending him instructions to make representations to the Pekin government as strong as those made in connection with the death, at the hands of Chinese sentries, of Charles Coltman, an American merchant. The Chinese government recently agreed, among other things, to have an indemnity paid Coltman's heirs, to have the offending troops and their officers punished and to obtain an apology from the province in which the American was killed.

In connection with today's raid, the state department, once informed officially as to the circumstances and details is expected to demand the release of any American captured by the bandits, an apology from the Pekin government and indemnity for any citizens of the United States suffering injury or hardship.

ONE AMERICAN KILLED; ALL OF WOMEN RELEASED

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, May 7.—An American was killed by the bandits who held up the Shanghai train near the Shantung border and carried off 150 passengers early yesterday, according to a message from Nishing, but all of the women captives, including Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., have been released. The men still held are said to be in grave danger. The message said the bandits had notified the authorities that all the men among the foreign captives would be killed unless troops were withdrawn. Miss McFaden and Miss Coralli were released with Miss Aldrich, the report added. Troops were pressing the bandits at latest advices.

Predicts New Era of Good Treatment of Prisoners in South

Dr. Hastings Hart May Probe Conditions in Carolinas—Tells of Situation in Other States.

(By The Associated Press)

WHITE PLAINES, N. Y., May 7.—Prediction of a new era in which the Southern states would lead the country in humanitarian treatment of prisoners was made today by Dr. Hastings H. Hart, a member of the Russel Sage Foundation and former president of the American Prison Association in announcing that he might accept an invitation to probe prison conditions in North Carolina and South Carolina. Mr. Hart who has investigated prison conditions in various states, notably Alabama, Mississippi, West Virginia, Florida, South Carolina and Virginia, declared that in a large number of states there had come sweeping reforms. "Alabama and South Carolina have done more in the last few years to better conditions than any two states in the union", he said. "The North Carolina state penitentiary and the jail at Durham', he said are about the average. The convict lease system attacked in Florida, he said was the result of the poverty of the Southern states after the war. "Slaves", Dr. Hart, continued, "were treated by owners like valuable horses but the attitude under the convict lease system was if we kill one convict we can get another.' The road cage, one of the greatest evils of the lease system, Mr. Hart said, is fast disappearing. It is in this cage, he said that convicts spent the night under conditions closely resembling those of Siberian prison camps. Conditions in Mississippi were worse than other states he had investigated, he said. There he declared, murderers sentenced to life terms, acted as guards and were armed with rifles. If one of these murderers killed a convict who was trying to escape, the murderer was granted a pardon, according to Dr. Hart.

New Issue Of Treasury Notes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—For the refunding of the last series of Victory Notes maturing May 20th the treasury announced today a new offering of $400,000,000 in four and three-quarter per cent. treasury notes, which virtually completes the first phase of the refinancing of the government's wartime debt. In announcing the new issue which will mature March 15, 1927, Secretary Mellon, declared that the present outlook is that all the remaining short time debts might be returned from a surplus revenue of the government prior to 1928.

Jennings to Draw A Ten Year Term

Alleged Auto Thief to Be Indicted This Afternoon Will Plead Guilty to Grand Larceny.

Dennis Jennings, who was brought from Henrico county jail to Danville early this morning, will plead guilty to grand larceny this afternoon and the court will be asked to impose a penalty of ten years in the penitentiary. This was learned from a reliable authority this morning, it being said that the only delay in entering the plea of guilty at the morning session was due to the fact that indictments were being returned against Jennings by the grand jury. Just before court arose for luncheon, eight indictments were taken into the grand jury, each one charging that Jennings had stolen a car.

Jennings will plead guilty to one of these and the rest may be nolle prossed.

During the intermission of court this morning, while the grand jury was in session, attorneys for Jennings and for the State were kept busy in an ante room with Jennings and his wife and child. Commonwealth's attorney held in his hand a fifty-eight page typewritten statement, this reported to be a detailed confession by Jennings and which is said to account for number of stolen cars.

The affidavit was sworn to on two different occasions, Jennings first swore that it was an accurate account of his activities and a week later when the statement was read to it, the accused man again made affidavit that it was "correct in every particular. The confession was made in Henrico county jail in the presence of James H. Hayes, assistant secretary of the commonwealth, and John W. Carter, of this city. When the statement was read to Jennings for his approval three other witnesses were taken in and also made affidavit to the fact that Jennings had sworn that the confession was a true one.

It is on this confession that a number of indictments are being returned this afternoon.

It was learned this afternoon that an additional indictment against Snead will be returned today. This it is understood, will charge that Snead "stole" his own Chandler Bailey-Hinton gray car which mysteriously disappeared three years ago. It was reported this afternoon that Snead might plead guilty to this indictment and also to the indictment alleging the theft of the Alec Koontz car and receive the court's punishment in addition to the five-year term imposed upon his last conviction.

Part of the Jennings confession deals minutely with the theft of the car from Koontz, the Davidson county farmer who was attending commencement exercises on the night of the theft. This part of the confession involves Snead seriously also C. A. Frazier, whose names are mentioned Jennings' details of the theft and the trip to Danville check up closely with the verbal testimony given by Kent Greer against Snead at the last term of court. The confession also gives details as to the methods of theft and the name of a young woman, Myrtle Rutherford, of Roanoke, is mentioned as an assistant in some enterprises. How car numbers were changed and who changed them also enters into the lengthy confession.

—L. Percy Wilkinson, of Girard street, who was removed to the General Hospital yesterday for an operation for appendecitis, is reported this morning as getting on nicely.

Battle of Votes Getting Keener as End Approaches

Those who are planning to capture the big prizes are the ones who are now getting busy before the end of the last big votes which comes this Saturday night, May 12th.

When the clock strikes ten, that will be the last chance to get in your subscriptions before the lowest vote schedule of th campaign goes in effect.

It is getting to be a fierce battle for supremacy—really a "battle of votes."

Time is flying—slipping rapidly by.

Keep in mind, too, that some one will get an extra prize of $100.000 in gold. While your are piling up votes for this extra prize you will also be adding votes to your standing toward getting the $4,145.00 Lincoln or one of the four other free cars to be given away absolutely free by the Register-Bee in less than two weeks.

You can't wait—you can't delay. If you do, others will be going along, gathering votes.

Votes and votes alone are all that is necessary to land this beautiful $4,145.00 Lincoln, the $1,355.00 Hupmobile, the $950.00 Chevrolet sedanette, the $664.00 Ford sedan or the $398.00 Ford roadster.

Votes, too, will win the extra $100.-00 award.

It depends on you as to what you will accomplish these last few big vote days.

Very little time is left and the time between now and May 12th—this Saturday at 10 p. m.—is the most important of all.

Fire originating in the kitchen of a double tenement during the absence of the occupant partially destroyed that room, firemen succeeding in confining the blaze to that quarter by prompt work in coupling up hose. The dwelling, 607 High street, belonged to J. B. Anderson and is understood to have been partially insured. Firemen were unable to learn the cause of the blaze which did damage estimated about $400.

SPEEDING CHARGE TO RESULT IN COMPLAINT.

That Phillip Greenberg, against whom a warrant for speeding has been served, intends to bring charges against the three officers making the arrest for conducting themselves in a manner unbecoming to a police officer, became evident this afternoon when Greenberg announced that he intends to bring the matter before the police commission. The officer in question is L. O. Belton, although the charge will embody Sergeant H. T. Haraway and Patrolman R. A. Adams.

The officers vigorously deny that Belton was ungentlemanly in stopping the machine, containing Greenberg and several other persons, or in summoning him to appear in court. The officers claim that Greenberg passed them on North Main street last night speeding and that they gave chase and soon overtook him, and summoned him to court.

It was first reported this morning that Greenberg had complained that Belton drew a gun on him in demanding him to stop the car. Greenberg was later communicated with and stated that he could not say for certain that it was a pistol but that he thought it was, although it might have been his billet. He said others would substantiate him in his statement. Besides pointing "something" at him, Greenberg [illegible] says that Belton was discourteous and cuss in his remarks, adding that "it seared my mother nearly to death" Greenberg denies that he was speeding.

Germany Again Is Told She Must Pay War's Full Measure

France and Belgium Reject Berlin's Most Recent Offer—Demand Satisfaction in Full.

PARIS, May 6.—France and Belgium have categorically refused to consider Germany's recent offer of $30,-000,000,000 gold marks as reparations. The refusal is contained in a note sent the allies yesterday and delivered to the German embassies in Paris and Brussels this evening.

The note criticizes point by point the German offer, and in doing so avows the determination of France and Belgium to be paid in full and not to consider any proposal until German resistance in the Ruhr ceases.

The German pretension, the notes says, would mean tearing up the Versailles treaty. In the final paragraph it remarks: "The German government, if it will only look into its own heart, will not be astonished that such a bargain should be refused."

After mentioning a number of objections to the German proposals, the note continues;

Semeral Reasons Given

"The French and Belgian governments should add that the present proposition of Germany is altogether unacceptable from several points of view. Germany's offer does not represent even one-fourth of the sum fixed by the reparation commission and recognized by Germany as the amount of her debt to the allies. France and Belgium have declared on several occasions, and they are led to repeat now, that they cannot accept a reduction of their own shares and although they are ready to offset them with inter-allied debts they are obliged to collect the remainder to repair the terrible disaster the German invasion inflicted upon the two countries."

It was announced that the note would be delivered last evening but the British ambassador asked for delay in line with the British suggestion that there be a consultation with the allies before Germany was answered. France and Belgium complied by giving England one day to think over the note, but with no expectation that the English would finally come into a "united front" or withiut any intention of modifying the terms at England's request as France and Belgium consider themselves alone qualified to answer in this case.

"Some Words on Paper."

The note lays strong emphasis not only on the inadequacy of the money offer but condemns the vague terms and rejects the idea of an international commission replacing the reparations commission and the allies as final tribunes.

It also emphasizes the German failure to offer security that her obligations as enunciated in the new note the German plan with all its shortcomings it would amount, "once again only to some words on paper."

Bogus Orders Sends Stock Prices Down

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Prices on the New York stock exchange were sent tumbling from the reaction from heavy buying on a flood of orders which were backed by worthless checks drawn on several Pennsylvania banks. More than a score of worthless checks were received by Wall Street houses over the week-end. One of these was for $15,000 drawn on the Keystone National Bank of Read[illegible], Pa., to cover buying orders in W[illegible]ngshouse, Reading and American [illegible]. Others accompanied orders to buy New York Central. Reports from Philadelphia and Boston, said that bogus orders had been received there. The checks bore forged certifications which tricked some of the brokers into executing buying orders for large blocks of stock. Selling operations started when the fraud was discovered, sent prices down, the entire list being carried low.

Captain and Wife Die Together Refusing To Quit Sinking Ship

MANILA, May 6.—The tale of the wreck of the British bark Army Turner, whose captain and his wife stood hand in hand on the poop deck as the vessel went down in a typhoon off the Island of Guam, March 27, was brought here last night by the four survivors of the disaster. Nine lives were lost in the wreck.

The Army Turner, from New Castle, Australia, with coal, ran into a storm March 23. For more than three days the bark fought the gale. On the 27th the crew decided to abandon the waterlogged vessel.

Two boats were prepared for launching and the eleven men of the crew urged the captain, Neil Neilson and his wife to join them, but they refused to leave the vessel.

Then the crew launched two boats, three men in one, the remaining eight of the crew in the other. The larger boat capsized and seven of her occupants were drowned, but the eighth, Frank Lyndholm, swam to the side of the smaller boat and was hauled aboard.

A weary voyage followed. A sail was rigged on the small craft and for twenty-eight days the cstaaways ploughed through a wide expanse of water until they made Surigan, on the island of Mindanao, in the Philippine group.

They had a small supply of canned meat and when this was exhausted they managed to catch a dolphin, which they ate raw. Next the drinking water gave out, but after a day's thirst a squall blew up with heavy rain and they refilled their cask.

After landing at Surigao they were sent to Manila.

White Woman Turns Indian

BY JACK JUNGMEYER
(Special to The Bee.)

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—Mrs Broken Horn, grand old woman of the Arapahoes, is one of those lost emigrant children taken in payment for conquest of the west

A strange rusted link between the covered wagon folk and those who today grow gardens in the ruts of the old Oregon trail

Mrs Broken Horn once was white and now is red She is a question and an answer to that endless controversy, heredity versus environment

Captured at the age of 5 from a pioneer train by the Arapahoes and reared as one of the tribe she is today at 74 as Indian in feature and characteristic as though sprung from the blood of aborigines Even the consciousness of her race has been completely obliterated by 70 years of tepee life She is the wife of an aged warr or chieftain.

DRUM TELLS STORY

Mrs Broken Horn gave me the oddest interview on record Speaking no word of English, she used a rawhide drum to tell her tale, as old white women conjure dreams over their knitting A war drum, to which her body swayed in eloquent gesture as I sat on the blankets of her wigwam

Thrub—thrub—thrub'" The slow melancholy rhythm of the rawhide beat dust wagons creaking from the land and life beyond to the romantic beckoning of Oregon and California in 1849 Among the youngsters a sprighty red-haired girl Ahead gleams the Sweetwater and the South Pass gateway to the beyond Between smoke signals from the hills, a gathering of bronzed warriors, a yelling charge Then guns and war clubs going the end of the trail for many, and children being hidden under blankets and the breasts of martyred mothers Thrub—thrub—thrub'

A red-haired girl wailing under the frown of squaws carried away to the camp of the Arapahoes, to be forever severed from her kin and kind Tears terror, dying in exhaustion Curiosity about her new playmates their games a life of novelty and surprise Masters of a gutteral tongue dimming of childhood's short memory, the weaning from old to new Thrub—thrub—thrub'

Play work marches. Lodge fires in a hundred camps on Wyoming's pleasant uplands A statuesque maiden decked in doe-skin and beads red braids pending about features growing broader and darker like and yet unlike her more stolid sisters of the tents The prairie bloom of spring and the admiring glances of young bucks—especially Broken Horn in his eagle feather bonnet Marriage, primitive honeymoon motherhood Love and labor, gain and loss as everywhere under the sun while the prairie flowered and withered many many years Thrub—thrub—thrub'

CHARLIE WHITE MAN AND MRS BROKEN HORN, STRANGE CHILDREN OF FATE

KNOW NO PARENTS

Haunting that beat—and slow—like the ruminative clicking of knitting needles If the pathos of a now forgotten anguish of a little girl's capture and the wonder of a heritage so completely erased, needed any interpreture of words, Major J V McCoy of the U. S. Cavalry supplied them

Mrs Broken Horn and a band of Arapahoes are Major McCoy's wards here during their participation in the prologue of "The Covered Wagon" a film epic of pioneer days Reared among them on the Wind River Reservation he knows their sign talk

In the group is another white who has become an Indian—Charlie White Man, captured as a boy by Utes from a Colorado settlement and later taken in battle by Arapahoes He was reared by Sun Road a chieftain

These two lost children of a vanished day may speculate what life might have been among their kind but do not regret their fate

"What more could a white woman's life have give me?" asks the drum or that nameless girl who has become Mrs Broken Horn

Morris was not at home when the raid was made and the police had not been able to find him. A warrant, however, has been sworn out charging him with violation of the prohibition law.

A PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF DANVILLE

Whereas the counsels of medical and sanitary science abundantly sustain the wisdom and desirability from a public health standpoint and from the viewpoint of the cleanliness and beautification that a systematic, public-spirited community effort be made to minimize the liability to the development of disease during the prospective high temperature season, now, therefore, I, Harry Wooding mayor of the city of Danville do earnestly call upon and appeal to all good citizens to unite in observing the period beginning Monday morning, May 7th and extending to Saturday evening, May 12th as Clean-up Week.

All citizens are urged to make special effort to remove all unsightly garbage and rubbish accumalations and waste and all vegetable or animal matter liable to decay, and to use disinfectants in all damp, uncleanly or malodorous spots in or about their premises. If this rubbish, waste and debris are accumulated and deposited where garbabe is usually placed for collection, the same will be collected and hauled away by the city garbage vehicles It seems timely and appropriate also to appeal to civic pride to make some effort not only to have cleanly premises, but also to beautify them as far as practicable.

CHATHAM NEWS

The past week has been fine for farm work and a large per cent of the corn crop is now planted and the cry of scarcity of tobacco plants is growing less as result of the warm days following the excellent rain of last week The farmers are making preparations for a large crop of tobacco and indications point to good crops being planted of tobacco and food products

TELEPHONE DEMONSTRATION

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia will install a switchboard in the Y. W. C. A. and an interesting demonstration of the telephone system will be given.

The telephone has become one of the greatest assets in the business and professional world, and in the life of the home as well, but few ever realize what a complicated little instrument the telephone is in its make up It takes the products of seven countries to make a complete telephone. Far off Japan contributes the silk used in covering the telephone cord. British India gives mica, which is used inside of the instrument as insulation Russia sends us that most precious of all metals—platinum from Egypt we get a certain kind of cotton, found only in the Nile valley this cotton is used in insulating wires in the telephone Brazil drains its rubber trees for us and when baked and polished, rubber forms the case of the receiver. From Ireland comes flax, from which is made linen paper used in the sensitive condenser From our own broad land—Alaska we get the gold, for our telephone needs a bit of gold to make it perfect For all its modest cost of back your telephone is a thing of romance Amid strange scenes in strange lands, there are gathered nineteen materials needed to make this little instrument we call a telephone

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come to the Y W C A on Monday evening of this week at eight o'clock to enjoy the demonstration planned by the Danville branch of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. If we understood a little more of the intricacies of the switchboard we could better understand the trials and tribulations of a busy switchboard operator. Perhaps if we were a little more intelligent about the telephone system we would then have a greater understanding and more patience when we cannot always get our calls in just when we want them.

Some things you should know about your heart

THE first thing a physician examines, when summoned, is the heart pulse. A normal heart will beat one hundred and three thousand times each day. You depend on it to beat every second of your life You realize the heart should not have to overwork constantly to throw off blood impurities. It is impurities which increase the heart beat. More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood They mean nerve-power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. This means freedom from pimples, from blackheads, from boils, eczema and skin eruptions; from rheumatic impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you! S. S. S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced.

Mr Arthur A Smith, 8009 S. Ada St. Chicago Ill. writes: "After suffering with bad boils, I commenced using S.S.S. I wish to say that it came up to all expectations, and relieved me of boils. I wish to express my appreciation for what S.S.S. did for me."

MAJOR CASES ARE PASSED BY AT OPENING SESSION OF COURT

Judge Price Withers convened the May term of the corporation court at ten o'clock this morning, giving a formal charge to the special grand jury of seven members, and then proceeding with the sounding of the docket, that is, setting dates for hearings on cases continued from the last term of court. The special grand jury which at once went into executive session is composed of Harrison Robertson, Jr., George S. Moore, E. B. Meade, C. S. Bruce, T. L. Starling and B. W. Beach. About twenty cases are to be placed before the grand jury and unless the body undertakes enquiry in some direction not at this time revealed, it could complete its work by this evening.

When the case of the State against W. Y. Noell was called this morning, Jesse Benton, assistant commonwealth's attorney, asked for a continuance. He made reference to the physical condition of Commonwealth's Attorney John W. Carter, who underwent an operation a few days ago but who today, was able to be present in court, saying that Mr. Carter probably would not be in condition to prosecute the case at this term. He also told the court that by reason of the fact that several months ago he (Mr. Benton) was associated with counsel for the defense in the Noell case, it would be impossible for him to conduct the State's case.

Defense counsel, through M. Kerr Harris, then asked that the case be simply passed by for the present and that it be not definitely continued until the July term, indicating that later on in the present term it might be found possible to set some trial date or effectively dispose of it. The prosecutrix in this case was present in the courtroom with her mother.

The case of the State against W. M. Snead revealed that the defendant was absent and the commonwealth's attorney after calling attention to this asked that a capias for his arrest be issued, this being ordered by the court.

The State pronounced its readiness to proceed with the trial of Snead on May 10th, next Thursday, on indictment No. 5 which charges Snead with the theft of a Ford car from Alex Koonts, a Davidson county, N. C., farmer. Dennis Jennings is also indicted for the theft of this car.

Counsel for the defense stated that it would be impossible to be in court on May 10th owing to a prior engagement, and it was finally decided to pass the case by for a few days and to determine the date of trial later on in the term. Counsel for Snead was unable to explain his absence, Mr. Harris stating that he had not seen Snead for three weeks. The contention was made that Snead was not under bond to appear at this term of court, but is due to be in court under $10,000 bond on July 1st. The State took issue with this excuse, however, and stated that Snead, while under that specific bond, was under another recognized bonds for appearance in court this morning. There are nine indictments against Snead who at the last criminal term was convicted of car larceny and sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary, an appeal being noted.

Enquiry made later into the question of Snead's appearance on bond today revealed no record of such bond being required. The records show that Judge R. S. Kerr, after setting a $10,000 bond for Snead's reappearance on June 15th required no bond of Snead in the other cases. James H. Osborne, Snead's bondsman appeared in court before noon, having heard of Snead's non-appearance and told Judge Withers that Snead was in the city but that he did not understand that he was due to appear in court this morning. Osborne said that he would notify Snead to appear without further delay.

City Buys Three Garbage Trucks

The city has purchased three new motor trucks for the city garbage department, one of these being placed in service a few hours after the action by the purchasing agent had been ratified by the public works committee. The trucks bought are a Ruggles, which cost the city $2,120 after deducting trade value of another truck, a two-ton truck costing the city $2,178. The White and International trucks are expected to be in service within the next ten days thereby speeding up the garbage hauling.

While this is clean up week and the regular trucks are not in the best of condition the city is hiring a number of carts in order to collect rapidly the accumulated debris during the week.

Irene Castle's Diamond Anklet Startles Court

NEW YORK, May 7.—Mrs. Irene Castle Treman, dancer, admitted in West Side Court she was more interested in getting back her $7,000 pearl necklace than she was in seeing heavy bail fixed on James Cooper, fifty-five, a jewelry broker, whose arrest she caused several weeks ago for alleged appropriation of the necklace which she gave him to sell for her.

Assistant District Attorney Charles White asked the court to hold the defendant in $10,000 for the Grand Jury but Frederick J. Sullivan of No. 51 Chambers street, counsel for the defense, said $1,000 was enough. The court finally fixed the bond at $2,500.

Mrs. Treman wore a band of pearls and diamonds on her left ankle, held a chocolate colored Pomeranian in one hand and repeatedly powdered her face with the other.

Youth Injured By Cap Of Dynamite

Ned Spears, a youth of South Boston is receiving treatment here for injuries sustained when a dynamite cap which he held in his hand, exploded a few days ago. Spears and some boy companions were experimenting with the cap when it exploded, tearing off two fingers of his right hand and injuring a third so badly that it was found necessary to amputate it. He was brought here to consult a specialist on account of the fact that particles of foreign matter lodged in his eyes. Doctors believe that his sight is not permanently impaired.

This Fire Dog Is Afraid of Fire!

TRUFFLES

NEWARK, N. J., May 7.—"Truffles" is a "fire dog" who is afraid of fires. He has seen only one fire in his career. It was the one from which he was rescued two years ago to become the pet and watch dog of "Engine Twenty-Five."

Truffles will not even go near an open stove. He is so afraid of fire, for locked in thas long-snooted head of his is the memory of a blaze from which he was dragged with his coat singed and hind paw burned.

While Truffles may be a frost as a genuine fire dog, his smoke-eater friends insist that he is the none-plus-ultra, buy-him-for-a-million watch dog. In his early days at the engine house he took his duties so seriously that he tried to keep the firemen out on their return from a three-alarm blaze.

Fireman John J. Walker who rescued Truffles is his special friend and patron. Walker is plump, jovial and happy.

"He's the best dog in the world," Walker says. "Maybe some day I'll break him in to run to fires. The trouble is he has such a long memory."

Annual Memorial Service Of Red Men Yesterday

The Red Men's lodge held their annual memorial services yesterday afternoon at Grace M. E. church, and the exercises were much of a success, the church auditorium being crowded to capacity. It was estimated that probably three hundred Red Men were present. There were representatives of Danville and from Schoolfield, Spray and other North Carolina towns.

After the services at the church, those present marched in a body to Leemont cemetery where the regular form memorial burial services were held. The graves of the deceased members were decorated with flowers.

Preceding the memorial services, the active and past officers of the order, were guests at a sumptuous dinner given at Hylton Hall in Schoolfield.

The services at Grace church were opened with the singing of a hymn, which was followed with the opening prayer by Rev. Oscar Gwynn. The roll call of the dead was the next on the program, then a welcome address by the pastor, Rev. E. F. Hall. Another song and then the eulogy by Hon. Posey J. Hundley were next.

Several addresses were made during the exercises. The principal speakers were Mayor Harry Wooding, master of ceremonies; P. J. Hundley and Grand Sacham Judge Harry Cathrell, of Portsmouth. The latter delivered the memorial address. He made an impressive speech. Mayor Wooding and Mr. Hundley also made stirring addresses. There were various other short talks and the singing of other hymns, after which the meeting was brought to a close with benediction by Rev. E. F. Hall.

The success of the exercises were due to the efforts of Clifton J. Parrott, and his committee.

Among those present from out of town were Roscoe E. Hughes, of Richmond, great sacham of Virginia, and Edward R. Cole, of Norfolk, great senior sagimore.

The class of adoption of Motega tribe will be held at Schoolfield tonight at 7:30 o'clock, at which members will initiate a large number aseption of Red Men.

Auto's Back Fire Stirs Winchester

WINCHESTER, May 6.—Residents of one whole section of Winchester, were almost panic stricken at 3 o'clock in the morning by what appeared to be one volley after another of shots, as if coming from rifles or revolvers, and it was not until police appeared that one Grover Amick stopped the back-firing of his automobile.

Amick said it was purely accidental—he did not mean to do it. He claimed the engine began to back-fire while he was going through town and he could not get it stopped. He was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and deposited collateral, which he forfeited.

Many residents who leaped from their beds at being thus rudely awakened, grabbed guns and revolvers and hastened to front doors, expecting to find police engaged in a gun battle with bootleggers or bandits. Older residents asserted there had been no such fusillade since the Civil War battles in and around Winchester.

Good Morning Judge!

An unusually lengthy docket greeted the mayor when he mounted his bench this morning to convene the regular session of the police court. The batch of warrants contained sixty-five, but many of these were old cases and quite a number were continued to other days this week. In view of this, Saturday night and Sunday was a busy time for the officers. Judging from the numerous Mapp act cases and the large number of drunks, some one must have slipped through safely Saturday with a cargo of liquor, for it certainly flowed freely and gave the officers plenty to do.

Since spring has come the weather is ideal for negroes to engage in their favorite pastime—shooting dice or playing cards in the open. Three raids were conducted by Sergeant J. H. Martin and several of his patrolmen which netted a dozen prisoners.

One raid near the city brought five card players, all of whom were assessed five dollars and costs. They were George Warren, L. A. Faulden Ben Gather, William Farmer and Arthur Motley, all coored. Sergeant Martin, and Officers Bowles, Dameron, Maybrry and Bates caught them near the city. They were in a valley between two hills. The officers separated and closed in on them from all sides. A bottle of whisky was also involved and Warren and Farmer were dealt with on the liquor charge. It was Warren's second offense and he pleaded hard. Farmer took it on himself, but the officers saw Warren take the whisky from his pocket and throw it into the creek. Farmer took the blame this morning, stating that it was his liquor. There was not more than a gill of the liquid in the bottle but Warren was fined $51 and costs and given six months in jail while Farmer was fined $51 and costs and given a thirty-day term, which was suspended.

Fines of six dollars and costs were imposed on Howard White, Posey Davis, Amos Lewis, Harry Richardson and Jasper Totten for gambling. Richardson was also charged eleven dollars and costs for an assault on Officer Bates. After being arrested Richardson is said to have become very disorderly and to have kicked the officer.

C. P. Frazier, who has been sought for some time by the police on a liquor charge, was seen yesterday and placed under arrest. When he was searched a pint bottle of whisky was found in his possession. On the old charge the youth was fined $51 and costs and given thirty days in jail. He was given a similar fine and term on the second charge. Both sentences were suspended. The youth told a long story of how he kept bad company and rather than disgrace others left town to try to do better. He said he had been in Roanoke and was doing good. After his plea he asked the mercy of the court, but his story evidently did not make much of an impression.

Charles Jones, colored, claimed ownership to a small quantity of a small quantity of whisky at his home on Union street and he was fined $51 and costs and given thirty days, with the sentence suspended. A similar warrant against Peter Dixon, the negro's father-in-law, was dismissed. The two lived in the same house and when the whisky was discovered, warrants were filled out against both.

Harvey Canada, fined $16.15 and costs no a statutory charge.

Walter Holt, colored, fined $11 and costs for not having proper lights on his car.

Mary Brown, colored, fined $16 and costs on a statutory charge.

J. M. Seegar fined $11 and costs for speeding.

Alge Currie fined $1 and costs for driving without a permit.

Josephine Darden, colored, was again in court for creating a disturbance by using profane language and drew a fine of $6 and costs. The negress has been fined several times recently on similar charges. She stoutly denies them each time.

FUNERAL OF PLAYER KILLED BY PITCHED BASEBALL

(By The Associated Press)

STOCK MARKET

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Speculative sentiment was irregular at the opening of the stock market but again exceeded the loss in the initial dealings. New York Central was the outstanding strong spot gaining 1-2 points. American Tobacco Co. advanced 1 5-8 and Mack Truck 1 3-8.

Spirits

TOMBSTONE OF SMITH TREADWELL, SHOWING "SPIRIT FACE."

SPRING PLACE, Ga., May 7.—Would a spirit from the life beyond the grave come back and chisel his likeness on the tombstone over the spot where his mortal body lies buried?

For 10 years this has been the question asked by those visiting the cemetery here, near Dalton.

Back in 1873, Smith Treadwell Sr was buried. Natives say nothing unusual occurred for 40 years. Then slowly, but surely, the face seen in the photograph took form on the side of the tombstone.

It now has reached what may be called perfect form. It is as closely like photographs of Treadwell as two pictures can be, they say—a perfect resemblance of the man buried this half century.

Was it the wind, the rain and the snow? And, if so, why has not the phenomenon been repeated in other parts of the world if it were a work of the elements? Has a spirit hand carved the engraving? Or has someone on this earth done it?

No one has accounted for it as yet, an dthe strange, uncanny happening has strengthened the belief in spiritualism by many of those in these parts who heretofore have scoffed.

Winston Minister Has Not Made Up Mind On Call

A committee of six members of the Shelton-Memorial Presbyterian church returned last night from Winston-Salem, N. C., where they went yesterday in the hope of hearing a decision by Rev. G. W. Lee, pastor of the North Winston Presbyterian church, who has under consideration a call to the Danville church. Rev. Mr. Lee told the Danville committee that he had been unable to make up his mind about the call and asked for further time to give it consideration. The committee which represented the Danville church was composed of Luther Clark, B. C. Sides, A. H. Touchstone, W. L. Smith, R. A. Petty and W. T. Wilson.

The committee attended both services, but the minister made no reference to the call at either morning or evening services, receiving the committee before the morning service and explaining the difficulty in reaching a decision. Rev. Mr. Lee was asked to come to Danville again and to look the field over once more. He said that he would write to the committee tomorrow, saying when it would be convenient for him to come. One of the committee members said this morning that Rev. Mr. Lee has been pastor of the Winston church for 13 years and has so endeared himself to the congregation that it is putting forth every effort to retain him. The church is about to build a new house of worship and the enlargement of the field in Winston is known to be a strong inducement for him to remain. As the committee viewed the situation there is a "fifty-fifty" chance of the local church being able to secure him.

CERTAIN RELIEF FOR INDIGESTION

New Cordial Called "Anti-Ferment." Originated by a Druggist and Recommended by Physicians, Neutralizes Acid Condition of Stomach, Prevents Fermentation and Brings Instant Relief.

MONEY BACK IF YOU ARE NOT PROMPTLY RELIEVED

Indigestion and its attendant ills such as dyspepsia, heart-burn, sour stomach, gripping pains, dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, cholera morbus, chronic constipation, gas, etc., and even sick, nervous headaches are now directly traceable to disorders in the digestive organs.

The food sours before it is fully digested, thus puting into solution toxic poisons that are absorbed into the system, irritating the intestines and setting up inflammation. To avoid this, you simply have to prevent fermentation by using Anti-Ferment.

Anti-Ferment neutralizes the acid condition of the stomach, cleanses and sweetens the bowels, soothes and heals the inflammed intestines and increases the flow of gastric juices, giving quick and certain relief. Get a bottle of Anti-Ferment from your druggist with a guarantee of satisfactory results or money returned. It will improve your appetite, give you restful sleep and make you feel better than you ever felt in your life.—adv.

J. E. Fearington To Live In Florida

The sunny State of Florida is about to claim another well-known Danville citizen, J. E. Fearington, who is just now winding up his affairs in this city after a residence of twenty years. Early next month Mr. Fearington will leave with his son, Paul Fearington, for Miami where he will build a garage and enter the motor business in the now famous tourist city which, it is claimed, is developing more rapidly than any other city in the South. Miami has a normal population of about 60,000 persons, the number being doubled in the Winter season when the tourist season begins. Mr. Fearington has sold his business to the Auto Specialty Company, Albert Gourley, manager, and he is also disposing of his handsome home on Mount Vernon avenue.

Mr. Fearington and his son will leave as soon as school is over, driving through the country in their car. The other members of his family will join him probably in the Fall.

Several Danville people are just now in Florida, Messrs. P. R. Hatcher, Nelson Benton and F. W. Townes, Jr., having left for Miami in Mr Hatcher's car on Saturday on a brief visit. John R. Cook, recently clerk of the court, is understood to be giving serious consideration to locating in Miami and others are said to be "bitten by the Florida 'bug.'"

Mr. Fearington said today that he had done a good business in Danville and disliked intensely leaving many firm friends in this city. He feels, however, that there is a larger opportunity in Miami, having weighed carefully all considerations involved in the prospective change in location.

Thousands Visit Cyclone's Area

Literally thousands of people motored yesterday afternoon to Lanier's Mill to view the damage done by the recent cyclonic storm which razed the mill and which did extensive damage along a narrow eight-mile strip. People who went to the scene and who actually saw the mill came away with a new impression of the violent mood of nature which spent itself in that section.

While many thousands saw the havoc of the storm there were many hundreds who could not get near the mill because of the large number of cars and who were unwilling to get in a traffic jam which resulted in some motorists spending more than an hour and a half trying to "get out." At one time the number of cars in the vicinity was so great that machines were parked for a mile and a half and people of the section stood on the outskirts of the line and warned motorists making their way to the outer edge of the storm and viewing its work there. Reports from Lanier's Mill today were that the crowd of sightseers yesterday resembled an Association meeting.

One man who saw the damage said that the mill had been lifted up from its foundation and crashed to earth on its side. In the woods nearby was found sections of the tin roof wrapped around tree trunks as though by human hands.

NOT AN IRREPARABLE BLOW.

The repeal of the Mullen-Gage prohibition law by the New York General Assembly at Albany is not such a serious thing as the "wets" would have one believe. True, it is the first bad blow which has been received by the cause of prohibition for a long time but it is not an irreparable blow. While the foes of prohibition may be rubbing their hands in glee there is still something far more powerful than the New York legislature to be reckoned with—that is the Anti-Saloon league. It is just such legislative acts as that passed in New York which stimulates that powerful organization to action and it is safe to say that the vote on the repeal of the New York state prohibition law will bring about swift results. The Anti-Saloon league moves in many mysterious ways and it will not lightly react to the set-back. William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon league about summarizes the situation when he says that they (the wets) have given the drys an issue that will enable the Anti-Saloon league to build a stronger and more effective organization than would otherwise have been possible for the purpose of re-enacting enforcement legislation." He also gets remarks that it was the repeal of the nullification beer act which strengthened the ranks of the Anti-Saloon league to such an extent as to make possible passage of the Mullen Gage act.

Governor Smith, of New York while admittedly a "wet" partisan has not decided definitely to sign the repeal act. He is proceeding cautiously and he proposes to hold a series of conferences to learn just what the effect of the repeal would be. The legislative act does not, of course, mean that New York state would become "wet" were the governor to sign the bill. The federal government stands prepared to concentrate its enforcement machinery in that state and to uphold Volsteadism and though this would be rendered difficult without the co-operation and aid of the state forces, Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes declares that he has funds in hand sufficient to provide a force in New York to offset the possible withdrawal of state co-operation.

The cause for this sudden revolt against the "dry" regime by the New York Assembly does not reflect a general change in sentiment on this growing issue. It is not a referendum. The Mullen-Gage law was too cumbersome to be effective. To carry out its provisions would have meant an enormous expenditure in providing adequate law enforcement machinery in view of widespread violations, the institution of new courts. This was the principal factor in the repeal vote another being stories of police graft and a well defined measure of corruption already evident since the state law had become operative.

ASK RETENTION TARIFF ON OILS

(By The Associated Press)

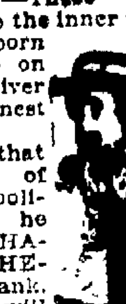

ATLANTA, Ga., May 7.—With the request that the present tariff on vegetable oils be retained, commissioners of agriculture from six southern states and representatives from other peanut growing sections will appear before President Harding and the Tariff Commission Monday in Washington, according to announcement here today by L. B. Jackson, director of the State Bureau of Markets.

Commissioners of Agriculture who have expressed their intention to attend the hearing include those of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama and Texas it is stated. Other representatives from Georgia will include Mr. Jackson, Governor-elect, Clifford Walker and W. W. Webb, president of the Georgia Peanut Growers Association. E. M. Dependler, Norfolk, president of the Virginia and North Carolina Cooperative Marketing Association is expected to attend the hearing from that state. The delegation will protest against the request of the oil refiners for a removal or reduction of the tariff on vegetable oils imported from the Orient and other foreign ports. Under the present tariff of Georgia peanuts have increased from $60 a ton to $100 a ton, affording a small margin of profit to the grower, Mr. Jackson says. If the reduction is granted by the tariff commission he contends, the bottom will drop out of the market and thousands of acres will never be harvested.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, May 7.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—These facts auto be recorded before the inner tomb is opened: TUT was born some 3,300 years ago on the banks of the River Nile, of poor but honest parents.

In keeping with that time-honored custom of naming the boys for politicians (and Kings), he was named TUTENHATON for the King AKHENATON, a religious crank, who, against their will and former custom, required his subjects to worship the Sun God, Aton.

At birth Tut's name was placed on the Sunday-School Cradle Roll and he became a regular attendant soon after. He went to church regularly. His folks took him to Church on Sunday nights, and to all revivals, when he should have been at home in bed, but he did, as all regular kids do, slept or cried all during the services. Later he went to church on Sunday nights because he hoped to take some girl home. As a man he sat in the "Amen Corner," sleeping peacefully, according to his early acquired habit.

The king had no sons, but his brunette daughters were mighty easy to look at. TUT fell for one of them and took her buggy riding and to the ice cream socials. At the church bazaars, at her solicitation, he bought, beyond his means, things for which he had no use. In fact, he spent as much of that girl's time as he could.

TUT'S seeming devotion to the church caused him, as he had hoped, to meet with favor with the king. First thing we know we find him son-in-lawing to that old man.

The king died and TUT got the job. He originated the expression, "A new broom sweeps clean," changed his name to TUT-ANKH-AMEN, and issued Imperial Edict No. 1, which said that his subjects could worship where, when, what or whom they pleased. He put the kingdom in order and all went well.

He died and they made a mummy of him.

Moral: Serve well if you would endure.

WIFE'S DECISION SENDS HUSBAND TO CALIF. JAIL

(By The Associated Press)

SAN PEDRO, Calif., May 6.—Standing before a crowded court room, Mrs. F. R. Wedge, wife of the "fightin' parson" of Terminal Island, said the words yesterday that sent her husband to jail for five days.

Wedge, lumberjack and prize fighter, given the alternative of a suspended sentence, providing he would refrain from addressing further street meetings of the I. W. W. or a jail sentence for violating the city picketing ordinance, called his wife out of the court room crowd to decide his course.

"It is my wife who will suffer if you send me to jail," he said. "I will let her decide her fate and mine."

Mrs. Wedge slowly elbowed her way through the crowd and faced Judge Carl H. Shelton, declaring:

"He must stand by labor, even though you send him to jail. God knows he is championing a worthy cause. Why, your honor, can you conceive of a slave market in these days of so-called civilization where men are herded like sheep? It is these conditions my husband is fighting and he must continue his fight against them until victory is achieved."

BOARD'S AWARD WILL BE PROBED

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 5.—President Harding has started an investigation of a complaint of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce against the Shipping Board's award of a contract for reconditioning the Steamship President Buchanan to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company in preference to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, Arthur Somers, president of the chamber, was informed by letter today.

Mr. Somers, in a telegram to the president yesterday, stated the navy yard's estimate for the job was approximately $400,000 less than the bid of the Newport News company. An answer from the president's secretary said:

"The president directs me to inform you that he has your telegram of May four on behalf of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and has already inaugurated an inquiry into the situation concerning which you complain. The president is unwilling to believe the conditions recited in your letter are justified by the actual facts. He will prepare to acquaint you with the situation as soon as he has in his hands the information for which he has called."

WOMAN BOUND OVER FOR PART IN DYNAMITING

(By The Associated Press)

PADUCAH, Ky., May 5.—Mrs Henrietta Wagner and Mrs. Peters Skillian, middle-aged women, were bound over to the grand jury here today without bail charged with participation in the dynamiting, which wrecked a residence here last Monday and cost the life of Mrs. Rosetta Warren and her unborn child.

Mrs. Wagner was charged with willful murder, Mrs Skillian was charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

Deputy Jailer J. W. Jackson, one of the principal witnesses at the preliminary hearing, testified that while both were in jail here, he overheard Mrs. Wagner implore Mrs. Skillian not to tell anything about the alleged plot to kill Mrs. Warren. "I would be hanged and you would go to the penitentiary for life," she said, according to the witness. The women were brought here last night from Princeton where they had been taken soon after their arrest by the authorities who feared mob violence.

The motive for the killing of Mrs. Warren has not been established. The authorities, however, attribute it to jealousy and point to the fact that Mrs. Warren's husband, at one time was a member of Mrs. Wagner's family. Mrs. Skillian was Mrs. Wagner's close friend and neighbor.

TO A FRIEND ON HER BIRTHDAY

"Thou wilt keep him in Perfect Peace whose mind is stayed in thee!"

As I turned the pages idly in my little book of Days,
I happened on this dear familiar line,
And a shade deeper meaning seemed to animate the phrase
When I found it marked your birth-day, Friend o'mine!

I thought of all the blessings that I could wish you, dear,
That health and wealth and happiness were yours at my behest;
Good gifts, and worth the wishing; to these I add the prayer,
May the peace of God dwell ever in your breast!

As I thank God for the joy of your friendship, dear, I pray.
That you should walk untroubled through the years,
That the clouds will e'er be lined with the silver of yor trust;
That His strength will ever tranquilize your fears.

That in sorrow 'twill bring comfort, in pain will bring surcease,
The shadows that are hovering will swift before Faith flee,
And all the years be happy years, thus stayed with Perfect Peace!
Dear, will you pray this prayer of peace for me?

After the injection we continued other means of producing respiration and in a short time the child began to breathe."

The baby was reported in good health today by hospital attendants.

LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE, IN CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I wonder, gay little Marquise, if it is really true that "this dear place of silence," which has kept all your secrets, will keep mine. For you know I am the next woman who has found her way into it.

I am going to "disgorge my overcharged heart" to you, little Marquise. Because you have been so long dust—only dust and memories—I know you will keep my secrets if, at the end of my life, I do as you did and burn these letters one by one, leaving the secret drawer to the next woman who finds it. (She will have to find it as I will never give up your secret.)

I wonder if you were always happy, if your "kingly lover" never spoke to you in anger.

Perhaps he did not for you never married him, you know.

A note of annoyance never came into Jack's voice before we were married. Now, however, with the best intentions in the world, I have made Jack so angry with me that he has hardly spoken to me for three days.

I still think that he is quite as much to blame as I because he would have nothing to do with the settling of our home; because he would not let me consult him as to prices.

He seemed to think that I should know everything about housekeeping, house furnishing, house budgets and how to spend money economically, as he does about advertising.

Oh, gay little Marquise, did you ever have to bring such a sordid thing as money into your love? If you did, I know that many times Cupid perched himself upon this secret drawer and let the tears drop from his streaming eyes and run down his little naked body.

I expect often you felt like passing him over your dainty scrap of a lace handkerchief if it wasn't so wet with your own tears.

Oh, little Marquise, I wonder if you found out the truth of what some woman who came after you has said that "one must shed gallons of tears before one comes to know that nothing or no one in this world is worth one."

I have pretty nearly shed my gallon, I think, but I haven't come yet to thinking that Jack isn't worth a tear. When I think how cross he has been to me, my eyes overflow again. They have been all swollen and red for a long time and Jack never noticed it!

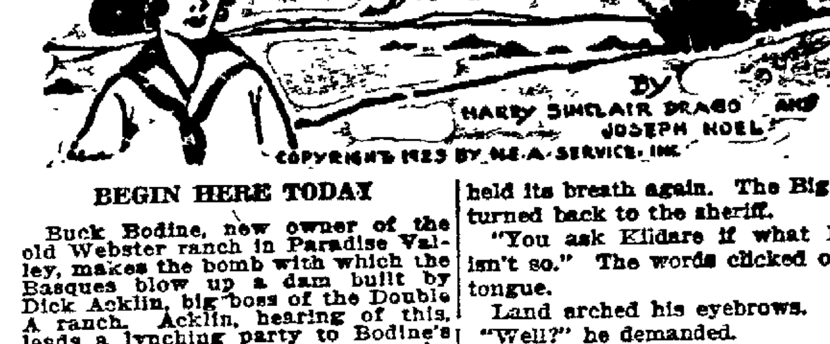

It all began when I showed him the lease of the apartment. Jack came home three nights ago evidently feeling splendid. He had made a wonderful contract that day and the first thing he said to me was that he was sure of a raise in his salary.

I thought this would be a good time to show him the house and incidentally the lease and so I said, "I have got another lovely surprise for you Jack. The house is all ready. We can move into it tomorrow. I want you to come over and see it this evening and while you are at the office I'll move our clothes over."

"That's splendid, Leslie," he said, and after dinner we started.

TOMORROW: Same letter, continued—No appreciation from Leslie's husband.

WHISPERING SAGE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Buck Bodine, new owner of the old Webster ranch in Paradise Valley, makes the bomb with which the Basques blow up a dam built by Dick Acklin, big boss of the Double A ranch. Acklin, hearing of this, leads a lynching party to Bodine's place. He finds a dead man on the floor and Mercedes Arrascada, beautiful Basque, in tears. Kildare, one of Acklin's men, secretly sends for the sheriff, who arrives shortly after Acklin.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Mercedes placed her hands on the shoulders of the two men. She seemed to gain strength from the very nearness of Kent and her uncle.

"You better go with Peter, too," Tuscarora advised. "We'll get you home in a few—" He stopped as he caught sight of the grisly object in the corner. "Land!" he cried, "look here!"

The sheriff called in several of his deputies before he moved out of the kitchen.

"You know what the law is," he warned them. "You're here to defend it."

His shrewd eyes scanned Acklin's face. The Big Boss scowled darkly. As Land was about to step past him, the cattle-man spoke.

"There's a dead man in the next room. That little pouter-pigeon who came in with you has found him. You'd better let the coroner take care of this."

The sheriff's mustache began to bristle.

"According to last reports, the county is payin' me my wages; not you. Don't you be so hostile."

Bodine grinned at this speech. His respect for the law increased a hundredfold.

Land hastily examined the dead man.

"Everybody step in here," he ordered. He got to his feet and wiped his hands on his trousers. "Who knows about this?" he continued. "He ain't been dead long."

Bodine answered him. Had not this good sheriff saved his neck?

"I reckon I can tell you about it," he said. "Acklin knows, too. Me and Kildare and the girl were here when it happened. She killed him!"

"No," Land groaned, unable to believe his ears. "Not that little girl there."

"That's who I mean. She pulled my gun out of my holster and fired from the doorway."

The sheriff shook his head uneasily. His deputies—all Paradise men—caught their breath. Acklin glared at Bodine.

Kent placed his arm about Mercedes' shoulders.

"You didn't do this, honey, did you?" he murmured.

"I . . . I . . . I don't . . . don't know," she sobbed. "I came to get Basilio. Bodine had him. He would not let me go. He said I must go away with him. . . . I would not do that. He made the other man hurt the baby. He was . . ." A sob choked her.

Land's Basque deputies muttered angrily and the Double A men scowled at Bodine. Before Mercedes could go on, Acklin got the sheriff's attention.

"She don't know what she's saying," he cried. "She's in no condition to know what she did. You can't take the word of a hysterical girl. I know what happened. Kildare was here; he knows also. Bodine's trying to save his own skin. I ain't going to see this girl thrown into jail. I tell you, Bodine did it!"

The Big Boss turned and looked squarely at Kildare. They stared at each other for a full second before Acklin continued. The crowd caught the deadly intentness of that glance. It held its breath again. The Big Boss turned back to the sheriff.

"You ask Kildare if what I say isn't so." The words clicked off his tongue.

Land arched his eyebrows.

"Well?" he demanded.

It grew quiet. The crowd waited for Kildare's answer. He began to shake his head. He was speaking. The crowd strained its ears.

"That's not what happened," they heard him say.

He was about to go on when the kitchen door flew open and Big Homer, Acklin's Kelly Creek foreman, came in, herding before him Bodine's men. Morrow was back of him.

"Found these birds hidin' out in the hills beyond Liotard's shack," Cash announced. "Had to be a little bit rough with 'em before we could induce 'em to come along with us."

Nez Perce looked as if he had been rolled down a mountain-side. Some of the others were not much better off.

The room was in an uproar. Blaze walked over to the sheriff's side. Bodine was just behind him.

"That's my gun you've got there," he said. "I'll trouble you for it."

"Guess that's so," Blaze answered.

KENT PLACED AN ARM ABOUT MERCEDES' SHOULDER. "YOU DIDN'T DO THIS, DID YOU, HONEY?" HE ASKED.

He broke it and threw out the shell he had snapped into position. It was daylight by now. Quite without premeditation, Kildare glanced at his watch. Bodine saw the charm that dangled from its chain. He reached out his hand to examine it.

"What you doin' with my charm?" he asked.

"Your charm?" Blaze queried in a tone to match his own. "Melody gave me that weeks ago. Found it outside the Bull's Head. What makes you think it's yours?"

"I'd recognize that luck-piece with one eye shut. I fell off a horse once and bent that lower end there. That little trick has brought me plenty of luck." He pushed it back into Kildare's hand. "You keep it. We'll need some luck before this thing's over."

Buck had scented a possible ally in Blaze. He saw that Kildare and Acklin were against each other. Blaze wanted to shout: Bodine had killed Jose!

Land called for order. His deputies had their guns ready.

"Watch Bodine," Blaze whispered to Kent as Land began speaking.

"I want it quiet now," the sheriff was saying. "We can't go on with all this commotion. I want to hear the rest of your story, Kildare. I aim to find out who killed this man."

"There isn't much to tell," Blaze drawled. "I came up to the house and heard the little chief screaming. This thing-on-the-floor was trying to twist off the child's arms. He saw me and drew. I happened to be a little quicker." Blaze paused to glance at Mercedes. "Yes," he went on, "I killed him."

Acklin and Morrow began to whisper excitedly. The Double A men began to gather about them.

"Guess you'd better get your prisoner and get out of here, Land," Acklin said ominously. "We got a little personal matter to settle with Bodine."

"You're pretty cocky, ain't you, Acklin?" the sheriff flung at him. "It's your move! You get along or I'll arrest the lot of you for disturbin' the peace."

"Say!" roared the Big Boss. "I've got a hundred men strung out along the creek. They've been circling on this place for three hours. All I've got to do is to raise my hand to bring them tumbling into this room. I don't want any trouble with you. But sheriff or no sheriff, we're going to take care of that skunk! He blew up the dam! God knows how many people have been drowned and how much damage the flood has done. If you folks are homeless, you can thank him for it. I warn you, Land, keep your hands off! Bodine is going to swing. Get your rope, Jones."

Brother started for the door.

"Whoa, there! Easy in the boat," Land warned. "Men," he called to his deputies, "you've been sworn to uphold the law. If any of these boys refuse to stop, use your guns. The state will back you up." His eyes turned on Acklin. "That was a nice little party you had arranged. But it won't come off. Why? Well, just because it won't. I've got you outnumbered three to one. Kent here got busy on the telephone before we left Paradise. All the Basque gents between this ranch and the Washoe are headin' in this direction. And they're comin' armed! Take a look through the window and see what you make of that dust-cloud there to the south. They'll be here in five minutes."

Acklin was dumbfounded. Morrow was equally crestfallen.

"You went out along with your dam," Kent chirped. "You'll learn that when the votes are counted tonight. You won't forget this election day in some time."

The Big Boss could have throttled the little man.

"If you want me to take Bodine into custody on your say-so for blowin' up the dam," said Land, "I'll do it. With the boys here accounted for, they ain't no lives lost as far as I know. The Doc says Esteban won't die."

Acklin made no effort to answer the sheriff.

The dust-cloud the sheriff had noticed had developed rapidly. The men who had made it were riding into the yard. Their coming did not lessen the cattle-man's discomfiture. He started for the door, beckoning his men to follow him.

"Don't expect any help from me, Kildare," he said to Blaze. "You've crossed me once too often."

"I'll get along all right, I guess," Blaze answered evenly. "I shot in self-defense when I killed Bandy."

Bandy? Acklin stopped. He didn't quite follow Kildare. Bandy meant nothing to him, but Bodine and his men stiffened. Nez Perce felt for the guns that had been taken away from him. Buck fingered his rifle. Kent was watching him.

"He almost got me the first time I came to this place. Didn't he, Buck?" Bodine refused to answer. "I didn't know who he was, or why he tried it at that time."

"Little Bandy Griggs," Blaze went on, taking the photograph he had carried so long from his pocket. "I've been trailing him for two years."

Bodine's face had gone white. Blaze handed the picture to Land.

"Sheriff, my name's not Kildare. Kent here has known me for years. I'm Bob Blaisdell of Wind River, Wyoming. Blaze has always been short for Blaisdell. Years ago I was a ranger in the park."

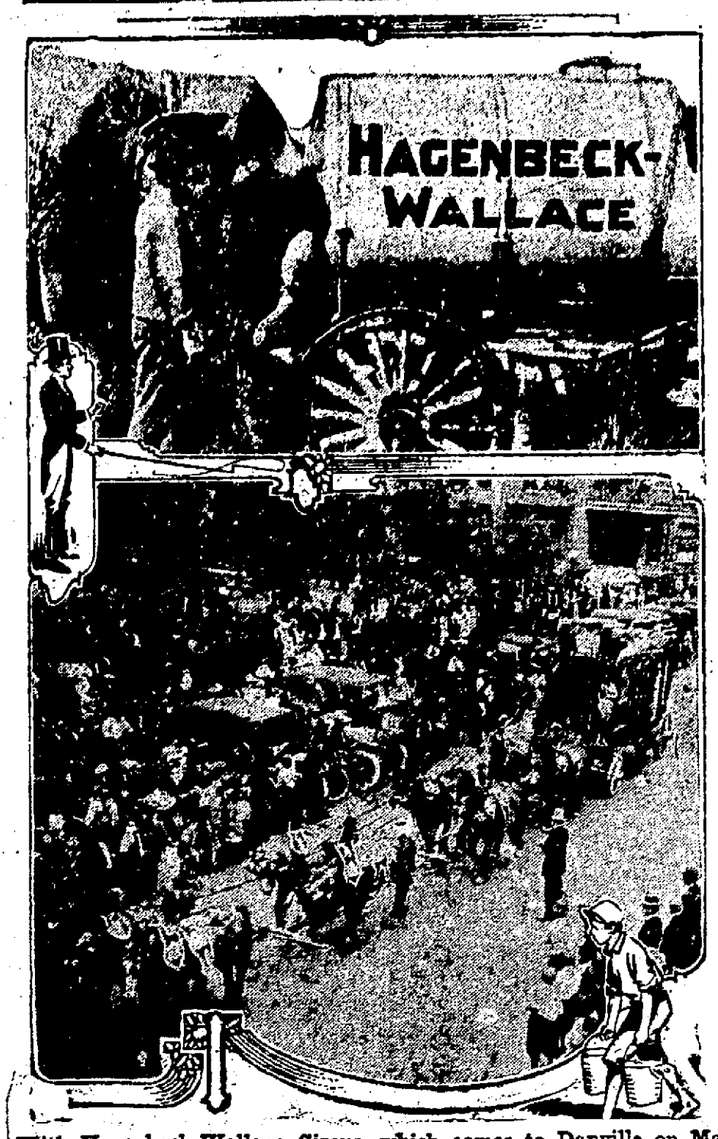

"Not old Timberline, the head ranger?" Buck cried.

Blaze smiled. "That's where I met Bandy."

"You ain't from Laramie, are you?" Land asked. "The sheriff?"

WEDNESDAY CLUB CLOSES YEAR OF GREAT PROGRESS

Tuesday, May 1, marked the closing of one of the most successful years of the Wednesday Club's history.

At 4:15 P. M., the semi-annual business meeting was held in the new club house on Main street. Mrs. W. T. Paxton presiding. Reports for the year from the officers and various standing committees were read as follows:

Treasurer, Mrs. L. N. Dibrell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. B. V. Booth; federation secretary, Mrs. J. H. Schoolfield, Jr.; director for club in community chest corporation, Mrs. Rucker Penn; calendar committee, Mrs. John Spencer, clinic; library, Mrs. R. A. Schoolfield, chairman; house committee, Mrs. Tredway Graveley (report was read by Mrs. Hunt Wimbish); education committee; Mrs. Garland Wooding, chairman, who was absent, her report being read by Pemberton, Penn, assistant chairman; entertainment committee, Mrs. T. A. Weller chairman.

All reports showed that the committees had been very active during the past year and much outstanding work had been accomplished by the club. Several items of business were attended to, after which the president gave her report covering the two years of office terms. Mrs. Paxton was very sincere in her praises and thanks to all chairmen and the members as a body, for loyal support and willingness to cooperate whenever called upon. The new club house is one tangible evidence of the undertaking of the past two two years' work. While the need for such a house had made itself felt in former years, it was purchased and the work of remodelling was carried to completion under the now retiring president's term of office, a work, which was by no means, a small undertaking. The treasurers report showed that a large number of the bonds which were sold, in order to finance the project, had already been retired.—a very commendable fact when the club has only been in possession of the property a little more than a year.

The new board of directors was next introduced by the president, and the incoming president, Mrs. John H. Schoolfield, Jr., was asked to come forward and receive the gavel, the symbol of her new office.

Mrs. Schoolfield expressed her thanks at the confidence and honor bestowed upon her, and then read news of the chairman of the standing committees for the coming year.

At the conclusion of business the club adjourned, and the members were driven in automobiles to the golf club house where the "annual frolic" was soon in evidence and all business was forgotten; the following words sounding the keynote for the evening.

"May the coming hour unfold with joy, and pleasure drown the brim."

The large club room, where the supper was served was tastfully detorated with white snowballs and Vari Houti Spirea. The table, with covers laid for about one hundred and, were beautiful and artistic, being decorated with the club colors, yellow and white, which effect was carried up in every details of yellow tulips as well as snowballs and spirea were on each table, which the soft glow from yellow candles in silver candelabora shown forth in beauty as the foding daylight rays announced the closing of a perfect day.

The house committee were in charge of the supper, which was very delicious and appetizing, and was enjoyed with a relish which was endorsed by the fresh country air. The following menu speaks for itself:

Fruit Cocktail
Cream chicken on toast, cold boiled ham,
English Peas Potatto chips
Hot buttered rolls.
Stuffed tomatoes on lettuce leaves with mayonaise crackers.
Blocked ice-cream in club colors
Homemade cakes
Coffee Nuts

Mrs. Julian M. Robinson, chairman for the evening's program, announced that the hour formirth and merriment was at hand and all sorrows thoughts must be laid aside for the time being.

Mrs. Bascom Jordan, toastmistress, called for the following toasts, all of which were received with much applause:

"The Business of being a Woman," Mrs. M. K. Hiffis; "Lovst to the Officers," Mrs. Hunt Wimbish; respose, Mrs. W. P. Boatwright, retiring vice-president; "To the New Members," Mrs. W. T. Harris; response, Mrs. T. W. Edmunds.

Mrs. W. T. Paxton was next called upon to pay "a Tribute to whom tribute is due." In her reply Mrs. Paxton, on behalf of the club presented Miss Augusta Yates with a beautiful gold medal in honor of her services as founder of the club and as having been its first president. Miss Yates, in receiving the token of love and fellowship, expressed her thanks in a very few words claiming that the orators for the evening had had all preceded her in the program.

Mrs. Robinson asked all to join in reading a poem, verses of which had been placed at each plate. A majority of them dealing with the fads, failings and fancies of women; lowerer a few words of wisdom concerning the opposite sex were noted from time to time.

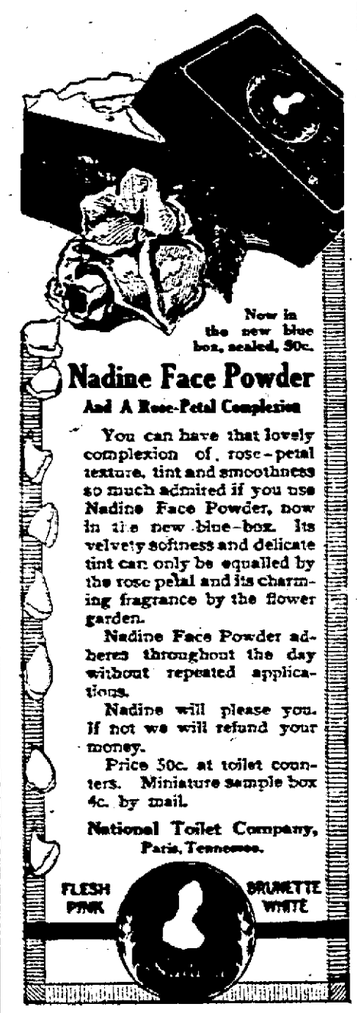

"Cove-ism and club-sickness," the last number on the program, was discussed by Mrs. W. W. Williamson, in her very own original style, with a few French words here and there.

Before adjournment all heads were bowed while the retiring president asked Divine blessing, at the close of hich the club year of 1922-23 passed into history.

EARL ON WAY TO U. S.

SOUTHAMPTTON, May 5.— Reports that the Earl of Northesk, who is said to be engaged to Miss Jessica Brown, American musical comedy actress, was to sail on the Steamship Berengaria today for New York caused much interest here. He did not appear before the Berengaria so far as is known, although newspapermen kept a careful watch for him and it is understood he was unable to obtain leave of absence from his regiment.

SOUTHERN POWER WILL CONSTRUCT NO NEW PLANTS

(By The Associated Press)

CHARLOTTE, N. C. May 5—The Southern Power Company will not begin construction of any new hydro-electric plants in the near future Jas. B. Duke head of the concern said today. There had been reports recently that several contemplated projects of the company might get under way this summer.

"We have made careful and exhaustive estimates of the cost of building further plants and find that it is impossible to build at todays costs and earn a reasonable return on the investment at prevailing rates at which power must be sold," said Mr. Duke's statement. "We appreciate the fact that power is important to the industrial development of our section and it is therefore with the keenest regret that we are forced, by conditions beyond our control to make this announcement."

The Southern Power Company has extensive hydro-electric plants and furnishes many mills and other concerns in North and South Carolina with electric current German General Tells of Plot!

BY BOB DORMAN
NEA Service Camera Correspondent
Just Returned From Europe Where He Covered the French Occupation of the Ruhr for the Daily Bee.

NEW YORK, May 7.—German censorship prevented this story from being sent out while I was still in Germany.

I had luncheon with a famous general of the German army at his home, and on condition that his name be withheld he gave me an interview heretofore unpublished

This general, occupying a powerful and commanding position during the World War, made these predictions for Germany's future

Overthrow of the present republican government the moment allied claims are settled

Establishment of a German empire with a Wittelsbach instead of a Hohenzollern as emperor

Crowning as the next kaiser of ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, or his son, Prince Albrecht

The former general received me in the garden of his villa He spoke, hesitatingly in English. His tall figure was clothed in a gray civilian suit

"Officially, he said, "I do not give interviews"

I asked him about monarchal Nationalist party

"Yes" he said, "Germany will be a monarchy again—soon An overwhelming majority of the German people want a kaiser, not a president

Monarchists Waiting

Reparations Settlement

"Leaders of the Nationalist party know that they can seize the reins of government now with little or no bloodshed But they prefer to wait

"We realize that a permanent settlement of the allied claims must be reached, and it is obvious that the party arranging and signing such a settlement as the allies can and will force them to sign, will be condemned and hated by all Germany

"Let the republicans now in power in Berlin preform this nasty job That will be our opportunity On the rising of anger we—and a monarchy'—will be swept into the saddle

"No we will not repudiate the terms of settlement made by the republicans That would be suicide, for the allies would overthrow us We will faithfully carry out whatever reparation terms are made The blame will rest with the republicans, not with us After the first rage has spent itself the German people will be satisfied in this vindication of Germany's honor"

Rupprecht of Bavaria

Favored for Kaiser

I asked the general about former Kaiser Wilhelm

Not Wilhelm," he said, decisively. "There is no denying that a certain number of Nationalists wish for the return of the former kaiser, and a greater number favor Frederick Wilhelm, the former crown prince But the majority of the German people cannot forgive them for fleeing at the time of the revolution, in Germany's hour of need No member of the Hohenzollern family will be acceptable.

"Rupprecht of Bavaria is the choice of the majority Rupprecht, the former crown prince, is now rightful king of Bavaria Failing him, the next choice would be his eldest son young Prince Albrecht.

"We believe we can reconcile the north of Germany to a Bavarian kaiser Such a solution would unite the German people as never before It would forever render hopeless the French aim to separate the south of Germany from the north"

The famous general's tone carried no hint of question or uncertainty He spoke as if a monarchy was inevitable, and he and his Nationalist partisans were merely waiting for the republican rulers of Germany to hang themselves in the noose of compulsory reparations

PRINCE RUPPRECHT OF BAVARIA AND HIS WIFE. INSET, PRINCE, THEIR SON.

One slight error by McDowell was the only one by the Chatham team The Chatham High School team has a good start for the championship of Pittsylvania County, which will be given a silver loving cup. The local team having played five games in the county and easily won all.

CIRCUS DAY FRIDAY

Irma Connor, Echo Yoshida and Helen Yoshida of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus which come to Danville next Friday on May 11th, are acknowledge the greatest wire walkers in the world Suspended in the air on a fine thread of wire perform marvelous terpsichorean steps that are the envy of many professional dancers on the speaking stage The Yoshida Sisters and Miss Connor are among the prominent features in the big show and the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus is indeed credited with notable novelties

In many of the large cities during the past winter, where the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows appeared in the big buildings the features that attracted especial attention were the wire performances of the Yoshida Sisters and Miss Connor, the equestrian feats of Victoria Bedini, Lula Davenport, Bessie Castello, Louise LeDoux and Marguerite Crandall, the Canton Chinese, oriental wonder-workers; the Australian Wood-choppers, the Orrin Davenport Riding act, and the trained elephants, camels, bears, lions, tigers and other animals.

Fifty noted clowns among them being Joe Coyle, Bill Hart Kid Kennard, Louis Plamondon, Danny Ryan and others recognized as without a peer in "Clown Alley" have spent much time and money in getting out a series of new laugh stunts. And the rascals demonstrate their musical ability when their jazz band takes possession of the center ring.

A picturesque street parade, over one mile in length, will serve as the introduction of Circus Day to the residents of this community.

BISHOP BLAKE WAS RECALLED

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA, Kan., May 6—A resolution recalling the Methodist Episcopal delegation to Russia and refusing to accept responsibility for any of the purported remarks of Bishop Edgar Blake at Moscow was adopted by the board of bishops, of which Bishop Blake is a member, here late today after hours of consideration.

The resolution declared that the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United tSates neither supports nor defends the Soviet government of Russia, as Bishop Blake of Paris, is reported personally to have assured the all-Russian ecclesiastical council of the Living Church at Moscow yesterday.

BUSINESS WOMEN NOW IN SESSION IN NORFOLK

NORFOLK, Va., May 5—The fourth annual convention of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs closed the first day of its meeting here with an open meeting at which Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, New York city, associate editor of the Pictorial Review, and Miss Thirsa W. Amos, dean of women at the University of Pittsburgh, were the speakers.

HARDING NAMES OLD FRIEND AS BEDFORD P. M.

(By The Associated Press)

BEDFORD, City, Va., May 5.—The appointment of Henry M. Howe, by president Harding, ti serve as postmaster has excited no little comment and indignation in the town, as the application of Floyd Gray, Republican, of Bedford, had a large endorsement and had been acted upon favorably by the administration to the extent of ordering him to serve as acting postmaster beginning May 10, awaiting the completion of civil service requirements.

Postmaster T. W. Richardson, who recently resigned, resignation to become effective May 5, received notification of the appointment of Mr. Stowe yesterday. He has been an inmate of the home for several years, and is said to be more than 65 years of age, and is partially disabled by defective vision.

In order to make the appointment the president's civil service order was suspended and the recent appointment of Floyd Gray, local Republican was withdrawn. Mr. Gray was notified about ten days ago to serve as acting postmaster beginning May 10 and on account of the endorsement by Bedford citizens, the community considered this final, expecting the confirmation of the appointment. In his notification he was ordered to take charge until the usual civic examinations could be heard from.

Stowe is from Ohio, is not a taxpayer and has no voice in the community life, it was in the city yesterday, and the appointment was creating much unfavorable comment.

FARMER KILLS WIFE AS SHE WAS COOKING MEAL

(By The Associated Press)

RALEIGH, N. C., May 5.—Robert Clifton, 53, a farmer residing near Wake Forest, was placed in the Wake Forest County Jail today charged with having killed his wife with a shot gun as she was cooking breakfast this morning.

County officials said Clifton has recently been held in jail for a time on suspicion of insanity and Sheriff Harrison stated that Clifton told him he had tried to slay himself after shooting his wife but was unable to hold the gun to his thead and pull the trigger. He added the farmer said he "could not understand" why he killed his wife.

Three children of the Cliftons were in the house at the time of the shooting but authorities said as far they knew the father made no attempt to injure them.

TO MAKE CEREAL FOOD OF HOLLY

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 5—A method by which the prickles may be taken out of holly leaves, which could then be used as breakfast food, is being sought by a committee of Victoria, B. C., city council. The committee is negotiating with Stephen M. Shaw, Yale scientist and chemist, and the State Agricultural College of Cornell, under George W. Cavanaugh, by whom the food value of holly leaf has been discovered. Their report indicates that the prickles can be extracted, also that the holly leaf contains seven times as much protein as wheat, two and a half times as much fat as wheat, oats and corn, and eight times as much as barley.

After being put through a vacuum process holly leaf has been tried out on animals, which eagerly devoured it and grew fat.

Thousands of tons of these holly leaves are going to waste on Vancouver Island, where the pretty and valuable bush grows in profusion. Mayor Hayward, of Victoria, V. I., capital of British Columbia, believes holly leaves could be prepared and put up in cartons as successfully as the products which have made Battle Creek and other American centres famous.

AMERICAN DEBT COMMISSION HAS NOT FINISHED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 5.— The American debt commission failed today to conclude its discussions with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador ,relative to changes sought by the British government in the debenture of the Anglo-American debt funding settlement.

After a five hour conference, it was announced that Sir Auckland would cable tonight for further instructions from his government on details of the settlement under consideration.

Secretary Mellon said progress had been made and that there was no reason to believe that final execution of the debenture would be greatly delayed. He insisted the subject matter under discussion was of no import as in relation to the general terms of the settlement and that the conversations involved only questions "which when worked out in clear language will make the contract work more smoothly."

"Great Britain," the secretary added, "has agreed to pay the United States so much money and at certain stated times. That has not been changed and there is no disposition to change it."

Another member of the commission explained that the contract which is to be the basis of the whole refunding scheme will be binding "long after we are under the ground, therefore, it should be made clear and workable now." It was said also that the difference in the legal language employed in the two countries had made some sections of the document ambigious and it was the desire both of the commission and the British Ambassador to frame such minor terms of the agreement as are not required to be submitted to Congress in terms allowing of only one construction.

The American Treasury also wanted specific language used in sections covering payments, inasmuch as these payments may directly affect its fiscal operations. Attention was called to the frequent borrowings by this government and the explanation was made that it was desirable that notice should be given when and how the British government would make its remittances under optional provisions of the pact. Expensive and unnecessary financing by the Treasury thereby might be avoided, it was said.

VETERANS REFUSE TO RIDE IN AUTOS

CHICAGO, May 5—When the muffled drums beat and bugles call in Chicago on Memorial Day, May 30, probably not more than five grayed, spare figures in blue or gray, with heads aloft, will be able to finish the parade.

Preparations are going ahead, however, and the boys who carried the Stars and Stripes to victory in 61 will march, side by side with the new boys from below the Mason and Dixon Line, who fought in with no less courage than the victors. It will be a thin, tottering line, but they will all be there, according to those in charge of arrangements, to march as long as their physical strength holds out.

Death has thinned the line out of blue by 206 since the last Memorial Day parade in Cook County, according to Jesse Buggie, assistant custodian of Memorial Hall, in charge of arrangements for the parade calls that day, Buggie said, they'll be there every one of them—to march and not to ride behind their beloved standards in an automobile. To them, he said, it is an insult to the Stars and Stripes to ride in an automobile on Memorial Day.

"We'll walk as long as God will let us, but when we can't walk we'll never ride!"—that's the motto of the old men in blue," he said

C. T. S. To Play D. M. I. At Chatham At 2:30 Today

CHATHAM, Va., May 7.—Chatham Training School and Danville Military Institute will meet for the second time this season in baseball at Chatham this afternoon. The game will be called at 2:30 in order to give both teams time to witness the Miss Danville Pageant at Chatham Episcopal Institute.

On Wednesday the Chathamites will play the championship Fork Union Military Academy team. Coach's Pitts team has not lost a game this season and only one club has given Fork Union a real battle that being Blackstone. Coach is keeping Everhart and Sanford, veteran twirlers, for this game. In the recent game with Blackstone Everhart was suffering with a sore arm and Sanford had just pitched a game, two days before, against the Danville All-Stars. But with a week's rest both pitchers should be in form. Angin, Fork Union's mainstay, will in all probability be on the mound for the visitors. But having pitched in yesterday's game against Blackstone he should not be in his best Wednesday and with this in Chatham's favor the Chathamites expect to make a few hits off his delivery. A win over Fork Union will place Chatham High as a runner up for state 'prep' honors.

Friday, May 11th the Staunton School for the Deaf and Dumb will visit Chatham for a baseball game. The cadets will close the season here Monday, May 14th with Randolph Macon Academy.

WIVES WILL NOT ACCOMPANY PLAYER HUBBIES

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—The wives of Pittsburgh National League Baseball players will not travel with their husbands hereafter, under an order made public today by President Barney Dreyfus.

Heretofore the wives of players have traveled with them on jaunts through the east and the west. Today's order posted in the club house is effective immediately.

Mr. Dreyfus and Manager McKechnie were reticent when asked about the order but it is said to have been posted because they felt the presence of women might not make for perfect.

Kinks o' the Links

by PRO

Player places ball on tee, then assumes his stance and while addressing the ball knocks it from the tee in so doing. Is there any penalty incurred for such a happening? What is the proper procedure?

If a ball when not in play, falls off a tee, or be knocked off a tee by the player in addressing it, such a happening is merely regarded in the light of an accident. The ball may be re-teed by the player without any stroke penalty.

* * *

A wins the first hole from B. This I understand gives A the honor at the teeing ground of the second hole. The second hole is halved. Who should have the honor of teeing off at the third hole after the players had halved the second?

The side which wins a hole shall take the honor at the next teeing ground. If a hole has been halved, the side which had the honor at the previous teeing ground shall retain it. A having won the first hole had the honor at the second. The second hole being halved, A who won the first hole and had the honor at the second, retains it at the third.

GEORGE SISLER IS MUCH BETTER

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—George Sisler, star first baseman of the local Americans, is recovering rapidly from an eye affection which has kept him out of the line up, Mrs. Sisler stated today.

She denied Sisler was in a hospital in Chicago, adding he felt so good he accepted an invitation to spend several days at the home of a friend about 55 miles from St. Louis.

KNOCKS OUT MARCEL NILLES

GEORGES CARPENTIER

"Gorgeous Georges" Knocks Out Nilles, But Has No Easy Job

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, May 6.—Georges Carpentier knocked out Marcel Nilles in the eighth round of their scheduled 15 round bout for the French heavyweight title this afternoon. Although he won, Carpentier, according to ringside observers added nothing to his reputation. It was noticeable that the old Carpentier spirit was lacking.

Georges was in difficulty as early as the second round, and weathered the third only through the inexperience and lack of combativity of his opponent. The experts were of the opinion Carpentier's attempt to stage a come-back although ended in a victory for him, failed to demonstrate any of the fighting qualities required of a champion, and had the former French idol been facing a real battler, the fight would have ended in the second round with Georges the loser.

In the second Nilles had the former champion groggy with body blows but he lacked the initiative to finish his man, who, with wide opened mouth, looked the picture of defeat.

Forty thousand persons despite the counter attractions of the final of the French Association Football competition and the university athletic meet, saw the two heavyweights crawl through the ropes. They gave Carpentier a great ovation, his popularity seemed greater than ever. Georges appeared to be in much better condition than when he fought 'Battling' Siki. Evidently he had trained hard for the fight but he appeared to lack the confidence he had in the former encounter, keeping on the defensive throughout the first round, instead of assuming a tiger-like offensive.

Tilden's Missing Finger Fails To Mar His Game

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
(Copyright, 1923, By The Bee)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Bill Tilden's missing finger is not going to hurt his game of tennis. This fact has been made clear as a result of his play against Bill Johnston in Central Park, New York, and in Philadelphia. He is the same old Tilden and this statement applies to his technique as to his demeanor on the courts. The inky champion dramatizes every moment of play. He wants the spectators to get into the game with him and his laughing glances at the gallery and his gyrations variously both attract and alienate those in the stands.

Some will have it that Tilden is a gallery player, whereas he is nothing of the sort, that is, not designedly. He loves tennis and everything associated with the game and his antics are the result of sheer exuberance of spirits. The writer has seen Tilden at practise when there weren't half a dozen spectators and his mannerisms were no less exaggerated than when playing before a bumper crowd.

Johnston, on the other hand, would be absolutely colorless were it not for a very palpable intensity of purpose, concentration upon the task before him. Little Bill is the very antithesis of Big Bill, mentally as physically. He is the only athlete of which the writer has ever had knowledge who, despite subdued temperament and unpicturesque demeanor, has gained great popularity.

Jess Sweetser's reported transports of anger over inept shots in English tourneys places the American champion in a different light. At Brookline last year no player was more self-contained, no player had greater control over himself. It is to be regretted that he has shown another side to our British cousins. Bobby Jones used to act up when his game was playing false with him, but in the past year or two he has evidently taken himself in hand.

John McGraw of the Giants says that his ambition is to construct a ball club of championship calibre out of college men exclusively. One wonders whether or not he will ever succeed in doing this. If he could at the present moment find duplicates of college players who have made good in the big leagues in the past and present his task would be simple. Fred Tenney, Brown, as catcher for instance, and Christy Mathewson, Bucknell; Eddie Plank, Gettysburg, Doc Hillebrand, Princeton, pitchers. First base, George Sisler, Michigan, second base, Eddie Collins, Columbia or Frisch, Fordham, shortstop, Jack Barry, Holy Cross, thirdbase, Arthur Devlin, Georgetown, and in the outfield, Davy Robertson, North Carolina, Max Carey, Lutheran College, Ind., and Marry Hooper, St. Mary's, California.

QUEEN ARDENT GOLF DEVOTEE

(By The Associated Press)

BRUSSELS, May 5.—Queen Elizabeth has become an ardent devotee of golf. She has had links laid out in the park at Laeken, where she plays almost every day.

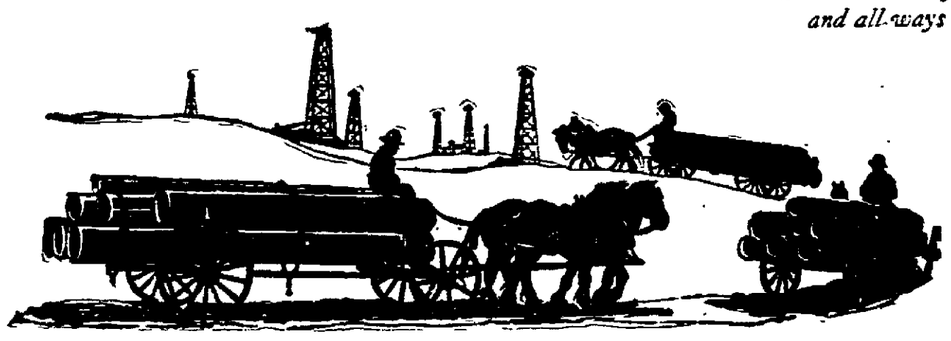

Prince Leopold also plays frequently with his mother and has become very fond of the game. The royal patronage has led to the building of several new courses in Brussels and Antwerp.

A glutton for capital

FIVE-EIGHTHS of the world's current production of crude petroleum today lies in the United States. In this one industry is invested about eight billion dollars.

This figure is steadily growing. Ever increasing demands for gasoline and other products call for more wells, more lines, more refining plants, more marketing equipment. It is the tremendous volume of the business that makes it possible to sell the products cheaper here than anywhere else in the world, and yet out of the narrow margin of profit to provide for tomorrow's requirements.

Fourteen Americans Enter Tournament For Championship

By LAWRENCE PERRY.
(Copyright, 1923, By The Bee)

NEW YORK, May 6.—Fourteen Americans, ten of them members of the Walker Cup International team and four who crossed the seas as free lances, are entered in the British Amateur golf championship tournament which begins today on the links of the Royal Cinque Ports Club at Deal, in England. In addition, two American golfers who reside in England figured in the drawings made at St. Andrews the latter part of April.

Form of not a few of amateurs in tournaments leading up to this great event have impressed the British and developed a great hope among the Americans that some of the invading team will carry off the honors at Deal but at the same time no one who knows of the conditions that obtain abroad is gambling with any degree of rashness upon our success.

In the present tournament, which shows a reduced entry list of 209, as against 252 last year, Dr. O. P. Willing, who has been very much on his game in preliminary tournaments, will not go into action until the second round, having drawn a bye. In this round he will meet Robert Grant, an American who lives in London. Willing, by the way, is the only American who found place in the first quarter of the draw which contains such outstanding players as Roger Wethered, W. B. Terrance, who was seen here last year, and the Hon. Michael Scott.

John E. Neville, of San Francisco, is in the next quarter and he will be pieced against Viscount Maidtone in the opening round Monday. Francis Ouimet is in the same section and tackles Arnold H. Read, whom he should beat, but not easily. In some part of the draw H. S. Lake, of Hartford will be found playing against a fellow American, Robert Hunter of Claremont, California.

Reginald M. Lewis, of Greenwich, Conn., will oppose Leslie Schon, a member of the Royal Cinque ports club. George V. Rotan, of Texas, meets J. A. Board; Max Marston meets Lieutenant Commander Guy Miller; Gty M. Standifer of the Columbia Country Club, Washington, D. C., meets Ernest Lebas, Cyril Tolley, Allen Fraham and Major Henry Boyd, crack players, all are in this quarter. Harrison R. Johnson, of St. Paul, in the first part of the lower half of the draw has been staked to a mighty difficult task. First he meets H. L. Holden, who may prove too much for him. If he slips by Holden, he will have to down Douglas Grant, an American, who, however, is entered from an English club; a fine player Getting by these two stars, Johnson may find himself pitted against the present champion, E. W. Holderness. Robert Gardner should have easier going in the first round, at least. G D Forrester being his opponent. Jess Sweetser will have to bring forth his best to subdue Noel Layton, the well-known internationalist.

As Sweetser goes along—if he does—the draw makes it seem probable that he will collide with such players as C. V. L. Hooman and Allan MacBeth. Fred Wright is drawn to play Commander Bannerman, about whom little is known. Davy Herron, of Pittsburgh, is already distinguished as the one American in the last quarter. His first opponent will be a young man, J. B. Beddard, who did so well in the 1922 British amateur.

English opinon is that if the cup goes to America it will be on the basis of superior putting.

LEGION POST TO SPONSOR HANSEN-TURNER BOUT

Danville is promised one more top-notch wrestling bout this season when Joe Turner, middleweight champion of the world, and Fritz Hansen meet next Friday night in the Municipal Hall under the auspices of the Danville Post, American Legion. There is a possibility that the bout will be a championship affair, this depending upon whether Hansen meets the champ's terms.

Both Turner and Hansen are anxious to meet and both are favorably impressed with Danville as a wrestling town. These two men are at the very top of the middleweight class and it goes without question that the match will be fast and furious.

Hansen has come nearer defeating the wily Turner than any other man he has met. This close bout occurred about 18 months ago in Charlotte N. C. Turner finally winning on a toe hold.

The fact that the American Legion is sponsoring the match guarantees that it will be conducted along sportsmanlike lines.

Danville Hitting Routs Raleigh's Boxmen and Wins

Danville, 12; Raleigh, 5.

After spotting Raleigh to a lead of four runs in the first inning yesterday, mainly through the wildness and ineffectiveness of Pitcher Toles, the Tobacconists came back with three in their half and took the lead in the third and held it to close. In fact, they increased it in almost every inning.

Raleigh presented three boxmen, two of them left-handers, but was unable to stop the Danville batting spree. In eight innings the local swatsmen hammered Pitchers Zellers, Edwards and Everett for fifteen hits for a total of 28 bases. The bombardment included circuit drives by Trexler, who is credited with two, and First Baseman Smith and Short Stop Dorman, one each, while Smith also added a two-bagger to his credit and quit with an average of .500 for the day. Heckle, second sacker, led the field in hitting, however, lacing out three singles in as many times at bat and driving in a run with his long sacrifice fly the last time he faced the opposing pitcher. Trexler cracked out two homers and a long single in four times at bat, but was thrown out at second trying to stretch the last blow to a two-bagger Manager Murphy is credited with three singles in five times up.

Dorman had a bad start in fielding for the day, foozling Lennox's grounder in the second and later dropping a perfect peg by Catcher Land when Carey, the runner, was clearly caught. Winston let Sessions' single get away from him in the opening inning, with the result that three runs were registered when but one or two should have scored. Three fast double plays by Danville nipped Raleigh's scoring chances Outfielder Graves had an unusual record for the day, three put-outs and three assists One of these assists completed a double play. Both Heckle and Smith fielded well and so did Duncan. Despite his error in the first inning, Winston made three pretty catches in center.

It was a day for slaughtering Pitchers, but Watts, who displaced Toles in the second with one out and two on, was steady and effective to the end of the abbreviated batting bee Toles walked three men yielded three hits and added a wild pitch in the first inning, but even then the Capitals would not have scored four times but for a costly error Pitcher Zellers, the first Raleigh victim was slammed for two singles and Trexler's first home run and in the second inning, which Heckle had opened with a hit to center he gave place to Edwards, who was called in from right. Valentine replacing him there Edwards cut loose a wild pitch, but got by without being scored, on in the inning. Two hits, including Trexler's second circuit-rider in the third, added as many runs. Smith opened the fourth with a home run, and Heckle and Watts followed with singles, while Grover Land chipped in a sacrifice bunt, accounting for the brace of runs in that session. Edwards opened the fifth by hitting Trexler, and his error in handling Regan's bunt, the latter's stolen base and Heckle's third hit, and a muff by Valentine of Watts' fly account for three runs and the pitcher's retirement.

Manager Duncan sent Everett, another southside hurler, to the mound in the opening of the sixth, and he started like a real relief artist, fanning Dorman and Murphy and forcing Trexler to ground out via short; but he didn't last long. Regan opened the seventh with a bunt toward third which he cleanly beat out, and then Smith hit to right-center for two sacks, sending Regan to third. Thence he scored after Graves had caught Heckle's fly to center. Dorman's home run, a long, hard drive which cleared the fence just to left of center field, was the dozenth and last score for the Murphy men.

The score gives further details of the work of the hammer squad and of the fielders:

MURPHY COMES WITHIN PLAYER LIMIT OF P. L.

Yesterday was May 5, and Manager Murphy had to comply with the player limit of the Piedmont League, which is 14 players, including the managers. In order to do this he had to release Pitcher Culp and Infielder McEnroe, who has been playing third base. With other releases which he has made recently the team now consists of 14 men.

Murphy stated last night that he had another pitcher on the way in Jesmer, of Newark, N. J. Jesmer will report Monday in Greensboro.

No confidence is being violated when it is asserted that the management of the Danville club is spending a whole lot of money and making every effort to put out a winning team. Murphy is on the trail of other players and he expects to secure every promising man that can be obtained. He is determined to put out a winning team in the race.

Already signs of strength are to be seen in the present line-up. Dorman, at short, is proving a most valuable player. Last year his work with Greensboro was considered of the so-so variety—a fair short-stop, nothing more. But this year with Danville he is living way above his form of 1922. He is not only fielding well but he is clouting the ball at a clip well over .300. His hitting has been a vital factor in several of the victories of the local team. If he keeps up the pace he has set for himself he is certain to move a peg or so higher in the baseball world.

Then there is Smith, secured to fill Allison's shoes at first. Smith is an old Virginia League player, and a class man, and in order to play him it has been necessary to suspend Allison. However, he has been playing great ball around the initial corner and has been hitting at a rapid clip He secured a home run in each of the last two games here.

EMBASSIES OF GOVERNMENTS MAKE PROTESTS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 5—The embassies of all the foreign governments still were without instructions today regarding the new Supreme Court ban on bringing liquor into American waters, although it was indicated that developments might be expected within a few days.

A call at the State Department by French Ambassador Jusserand started a report that a French protest against the new regulation already had been lodged with the American government, but it was said at the embassy that no advices on the subject had come from Paris and that the ambassador's talk with Secretary Hughes related to other questions.

There are intimations in diplomatic circles that active exchanges were in progress among the maritime nations of Europe and that when a protest is made it may have the backing of more than one foreign government. That feature of the situation, however, still is to be decided.

Copies of that portion of the Supreme Court decision which applies to foreign ships were given by the State Department yesterday to the foreign embassies and legations here for the information of their governments. It is not expected that any formal protests will be made until the exact wording of the decision has been studied abroad.

The result has not been announced but his friends do not anticipate that he will be executed.

England Would Have to Support French in Ruhr

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, May 5.— Indications of an apparent feeling in London that Great Britain would like to re-enter the reparations negotiations alongside France and the other allies are received with great interest in French official and political circles. The general opinion, however, is that the time is not ripe for resumption of joint negotiations unless the British government has experienced a great change of heart and is ready to approve the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr.

It is held, furthermore, that the reply to Germany's latest reparations proposal does not necessarily call for concerted action by all the allies since it involves a strictly negative response to a proposition to change a signed agreement already in effect. If the reply involved discussion of eventual changes in the treaty of Verasailles or in the procedure adopted by all the allies, it then would not be only proper but necessary that all the allies be consulted it is said.

Even if it were thought useful to consult the British government at this time, it is regarded in official circles here as involving great difficulties, since the British cabinet so far as known, still remains opposed or at best benevolently neutral toward the occupation of the Ruhr.

Marquis Curzon reference to the situation in a speech in London yesterday is interpreted in some circles as indicating an early change of attitude by the British government toward the application of pressure on Germany. This would be heartily welcomed here, as the conviction is as strong as ever in French official circles that only by energetic and vigorous measures can the allies ever bring Germany to terms.

In his speech yesterday Secretary Curzo ndeclared:

"We shall onl remereg from the difficult and anxious situation by concerted action. If the German are confronted with the advice, decisions and actions of all the principal powers concerned the chances for success will be greatly increased.

BANDITS ROB PAYROLLS AND GET NEARLY $7,000

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 5.—Payroll bandits perpetrated attacks on four persons entering or leaving banks with funds today, escaping with nearly $7,000.

One of the robberies ended in a pistol battle in which one bandit was killed by a policeman after a running fight through West Broadway and one of his two companions was captured. The other escaped with most of the $4,700 which they had wrested from Joseph Scheph, paymaster for the produce house.

About the same time, Miss Louise Garbarni was robbed of $1,311 by three men who leaped from an automobile and attacked her near Gramercy Park.

A few moments later a lone thug attacked a young woman at Fifth Avenue and 115th Street and snatched $209 from her. A policeman who captured the thug had difficulty protecting him from a mob.

Miss Rose Cohen, cashier for the Gem Art Company, was held up on Canal Street at noon by a thug who swung at her with a piece of gas pipe. Her screams put him to flight however, and she saved $500 which she was taking to her office to pay off the employes

MORTGAGE UNDERWRITERS WILL NOT INCREASE LOANS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 5.—Leading mortgage underwriters revealed today that they would not increase the fixed amount of their loans to meet rising construction costs. Thirty per cent. has been allowed for increased costs since 1916, but no further allowance for higher wages of union workers and for increased cost of materials will be made, it is stated.

One of the largest mortgage houses is reported to have refused applications on the ground that the margin of safety for building loans has been reached.

Masons Will Go To Lawrenceville

LAWRENCE, May 7.—Word has just been received from the officers of the Pythian lodge here, said to be one of the strongest Pythian lodges in Southside Virginia, that arrangements have been completed with Zuad Temple, Dramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan, of Norfolk, to stage a ceremonial in Lawrenceville, including a thirty-five-piece band and drum corps will come from Norfolk by special train, while others will join the train at Suffolk, Franklin and Emporia, making a total of approximately 300 people arriving at Lawrenceville.

Brigands, sheiks, mokannas, sahibs, satraps and other Arabian characters are part of the DOKK outfit to visit Lawrenceville, and the town will take on the appearance of a Far East oasis for the day. A street parade and the initiation of nearly a hundred candidates will be a special feature of the day.

Vacation Outfit

We recommend this outfit as the solution of any woman's summer wardrobe. With a skirt and blouse one can accomplish all sorts of illusions. The pleated skirt on a camisole top serves as the working basis for a number of costumes.

If the blouse and skirt are of silk it can be an afternoon dress. If it is of gingham it will serve for morning or sports wear. It is the indispensable vacation dress, the first out of the trunk and the last to be packed away.

RUTH DRAPER

The Music Study Club is planning to give the people of Danville an unusual opportunity of seeing and hearing the rare art of Ruth Draper whom the London Times has called the most accomplished of living reciters. She will present her original character sketches at the Masonic Temple Auditorium May 11th.

Miss Draper is an American girl of family distinction. Her father was William Draper, a distinguished physician, who died in 1900. Her grandfather was Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun.

After having achieved success at home, she ventured abroad where her talents were quickly recognized. For two or three seasons she has been quite the vogue in Paris, London and Madrid appearing before the Kings and queens of England and Spain.

She won triumphs abroad such as have never been won by another American artist. She returned to America last winter to find a reception and an approval that has put her not only at the top of her profession but has won for her universal praise from dramatic critics in every city of importance from New York and Boston to Chicago and San Francisco.

Her original character sketches are referred to as monologues, but it is misleading to speak of her as a monologist.

She really is a character actress of remarkable versatility. Her appearance here is incidental to her visiting in this vicinity and the Music Study Club is indeed fortunate to be able to present to our people so distinguished an artist.
